'Made in NY' aims at the next generation of entrepreneurs

► New campaign by the mayor showcases New York's power as start-up leader for young firms

Mayor Michael Bloomberg has been working to position New York City as one of the world's great tech and innovation capitals. His most recent initiative showcases some of the many young start-ups in the city and hopes to attract others with a new registry of hundreds of "Made in NY" designated companies.

The nearly 1,000 companies on the mayor's list have harnessed the creative energy of the denizens of this gritty city to power a wide array of businesses, from online dating to eyewear, in ways that are as unique as the city they call home. The initiatives goals are to recruit more companies and talent to the city. Metro looked at four "Made in NY" businesses.

► How About We is one of the almost 1,000 companies on the "Made in NY" registry.

How About

We

Howaboutwe.com is an online dating website that places more emphasis on the "dating" than the "online."

► "We had the idea that people believe in experience, they want to do things, and it's cooler to meet based on the idea of actually going on a date in the real world than endlessly browsing profiles or chatting online forever, winking, whatever," says owner Aaron Schildkrout, who started the company with his friend Brian Schechter.

► Users sign up and propose date ideas, and are matched with people with similar date ideas. Schildkrout describes the interface as "a lot like a Twitter stream, but it's of dates."

Warby Parker

Neil Blumenthal started Warby Parker with some friends while in graduate school at Wharton in 2010, but moved the operation to the city upon graduation.

► A native New Yorker, Blumenthal said, "It's hard to live anywhere else."

► The idea for Warby Parker came about when Blumenthal realized "glasses cost as much as an iPhone," and decided to "find the frames that we love and make them from premium materials but charge $95 instead of $500."

► Warby Parker's SoHo showroom now brings in the same amount of sales that Tiffany's does.

Freelancers

Union

Freelancers Union is an insurance company for the ubiquitous kind of

New Yorker most insurance companies scoff at: the (sometimes struggling) freelancer.

► Started in 1995, it now has more than 200,000 members.

► "I saw that my neighbors were piecing together their work lives in new ways — the accountant who sings opera at night, the nanny who builds websites," said founder and CEO Sara Horowitz.

Songza

The guys behind Songza are the poster boys for the "Made in NY" platform: Their photo is featured in ads plastered around the city.

► Songza is a music-streaming website, but Elias Roman, one of its creators, sees it as more of a "lifestyle service." Songza offers playlists based on moods.

► There are no "computer deciding what songs go on what playlists," Roman said. The playlists featured are chosen by curators around NYC.

► The Songza guys have been based out of Long Island City since 2007 and love the neighborhood, Roman said.

Domino project reimagines the Brooklyn waterfront

SHOP ARCHITECTS AND JAMES CORNER FIELD OPERATIONS

► There will be five acres of open space in the project.

Two Trees Management Company, the developers for the controversial site of the old Domino Sugar Factory in Williamsburg, released a plan for the waterfront site yesterday, designed by SHoP Architects.

Two Trees is best known for development work in DUMBO, and the Domino Sugar Factory site is best known for the degree to which neighborhood residents fought its development. While there are already previously approved plans in place, those plans were, Curbed noted, met with such ire that the new SHoP plans were created in an effort to calm public sentiment.

The new SHoP plan has less residential space and fewer residential units, more office space, less retail space, fewer parking spaces, vastly more public open space, taller buildings and an overall 230,256 more gross square feet — and that's just by the numbers.

The proposal outlines a mixed-use complex that would be active 24/7, and include integrated affordable housing and new tree-lined pedestrian walkways connecting the waterfront to the street.

Two Trees is planning for 500,000 square feet of new office space, hoping to host 3,000 to 4,000 more permanent jobs.

The figure has a historical connection: It would return the site to its peak level of jobs once hosted at the factory, which was reportedly more than 4,000 in the early 20th century. The figure declined to 1,500 after World War II and less than 300 in 2001.

500K

Two Trees is planning for 500,000 square feet of new office space, hoping to host 3,000 to 4,000 more permanent jobs.

It will also include a school, a recreation center and opportunities for small, independent retail.

Outdoor enthusiasts can look forward to more than five acres of park space, including sports fields, gardens and seating areas, as well as a waterfront esplanade with a kayak launch and a floating pool.

For those who still fret about the loss of neighborhood history, the plan details the preservation of historic factory artifacts, including cranes and sand syrup tanks, to be incorporated into an elevated walkway that apparently aims to be the High Line of Williamsburg. METRO/DT

Baby born after crash dies the next morning

The baby who was born after his parents were killed in a Brooklyn car crash on Sunday has died.

Community leader Isaac Abraham said the baby died around 5:30 a.m. yesterday.

Police are still searching for the driver and a passenger of the BMW vehicle that crashed into the car carrying Nachman and Raizy Glauber. The occupants of the BMW reportedly jumped out of their car and ran away. Police said witnesses reported that the driver was male and the passenger was female. The police released a photo yesterday of the suspect, Julio Acevedo, 44, who was supposedly behind the wheel of the BMW. The married couple, both 21, were on the way to the hospital because the pregnant woman was not feeling well.

Doctors had delivered the premature baby via C-section. A funeral for the couple was held on Sunday. ● LAURA SHIN

Police ID crash suspect

Cops have released a photo of a man they say was the driver of the Sunday hit-and-run that killed an expecting Williamsburg couple.

Police say Julio Acevedo, 44, was the man behind the wheel of the BMW that killed 21-year-old Nachman and Raizy Glauber. According to police, Acevedo and the female who was with him fled the scene on foot after the accident. Cops were able to find the vehicle's owner using the New York state license plate on the car left behind.

Acevedo is wanted for questioning in the incident. ● METRO/DT

NYPD working on Beyonce tickets for gun buyback

Hip-hop music executive Michael "Blue" Williams has pitched the NYPD a different kind of gun buyback program: "Guns for Greatness" — and

"Greatness" swaps Beyonce and Jay-Z concert tickets for firearms.

Williams' proposal suggests that people turning in illegal firearms receive tickets to some of this summer's most anticipated shows.

Deputy Commissioner

Paul Browne confirmed that NYPD Commissioner Ray Kelly is considering the proposal. Ed Mullins, a sergeant in the detective squad at the 67th precinct, is hoping Kelly approves the program.

"Any program that gets people to turn in illegal handguns is a good program," Mullins said. "What's especially good about this program is people look up to celebrities, and we're now bringing them in to help send the message to get firearms off the street."

Typically the NYPD offers cash vouchers in their buyback programs. Mullins said that the funding for the programs comes from a variety of sources.

A Note Regarding the
Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Robotics, animation in curriculum for school pilot program

Beginning this fall, students at 20 New York City middle and high schools will have the chance to take courses such as Web design, 3-D printing and animation.

Mayor Michael Bloomberg and Schools Chancellor Dennis Walcott recently announced the names of the schools selected to receive a computer science and software engineering curriculum. The Software Engineering Pilot program is a part of an effort to prepare more students for careers in the growing technology sector.

"The tech industry in New York City continues to expand significantly under Mayor Bloomberg's leadership, and our public schools are rising to meet the challenge," said Walcott.

Middle and high schools were chosen to take part in the pilot program

The announcement was made at the High School of Telecommunication Arts and Technology in Brooklyn, one of the selected schools. Around 1,000 students are expected to participate. By 2016, the program will grow to 3,500 students.

The program will give middle and high school students access to courses covering topics like computer programming, Web design and programming, robotics and mobile computing. It also provides teacher training and ensures schools have access to technology resources to support the courses.

► Reforming Social Security might be on the table.

President Barack Obama raised anew the issue of cutting entitlements such as Medicare and Social Security as a way out of damaging budget cuts, a White House official said on Sunday, as both sides tried to limit a fiscal crisis.

Signaling he might be ready to explore a compromise to end automatic spending cuts that began late Friday, Obama mentioned reforming these entitlement programs in calls with lawmakers from both parties on Saturday afternoon.

It's a bird, no, a plane! It's ... a drone

They hover over Hollywood film sets and professional sports events. They track wildfires in Colorado, survey Kansas farm crops and vineyards in California. They inspect miles of industrial pipeline and monitor wildlife, river temperatures and volcanic activity. They also locate marijuana fields, reconstruct crime scenes and spot illegal immigrants breaching U.S. borders. Tens of thousands of domestic drones are zipping through U.S. skies, of-

Domestic drones are poised for widespread expansion into U.S. airspace once regulation catches up with reality. That is scheduled to begin in late 2015, when the U.S. government starts issuing commercial drone permits.

Veteran aerial photographer Mark Bateson, a consultant to the film and television industry and some police departments, said one reality show producer asked him last year whether his custom-made drone could hover over a desert and use its thermal imaging sensors to spot ghosts for a ghost-hunter reality series. REUTERS

The report was prepared for Benedict, who is now "Pope Emeritus," by three elderly cardinals who investigated the "Vatileaks" scandal last year. The three are attending the meetings but will not enter the conclave.

► Paolo Gabriele, the pope's butler, was convicted of stealing personal papal documents and leaking them to the media.

► The documents alleged corruption and infighting over the running of its bank. Gabriele was jailed and later pardoned by Benedict.

ty. "But it is a very long report and technically it is secret."

Benedict decided to make the report available only to his successor but one Vatican official said the three elderly cardinals who wrote it could "use their discernment to give any necessary guidance" to fellow cardinals without violating their pact of secrecy. REUTERS

THE WORD

Dorothy Robinson's take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

Jaden Smith's new squeeze

In today's "Lifestyles of The Rich and Famous: The Prepubescent Set" it looks like Jaden Smith, 14, and Kylie Jenner, 15, are going steady. Smith, who was in London recently for Justin Bieber's 19th birthday party (more on that later), took Jenner to Caffè Nero in London's Piccadilly Square on Sunday. "They're dating," says a source close to Jenner. "It's new, but they've been friends forever."

So welcome to your future: We're going to be reading about who these two are dating for the next 30 years — starting now. Horrifying, isn't it?

More on Bieber's 'worst' birthday

Justin Bieber is backtracking that his birthday was "the worst" — as he said on Twitter — because his friends were barred entry to the club where he was celebrating because they were underage. "I love how the club wanted to give the press another reason to why we didn't stay at their weak-ass club so they wouldn't look bad for me walking in and right back out," he wrote on Instagram. "I said 'worst birthday,' but that was due to dummies pushing over my fans," he writes.

Courtside canoodling with Mary-Kate

Every time I see Mary-Kate Olsen, 26, making out with her 43-year-old boyfriend, French financier Olivier Sarkozy, I think: "Why is there an Olsen kissing Tom Hanks?" Here, the couple was up for some courtside PDA at Madison Square Garden during the Miami Heat vs. New York Knicks game on Sunday.

Chin up, Liz!

1: Queen Elizabeth was discharged from a London hospital yesterday after a bout with a stomach bug.

2: It may be the floppy hair, the chisled chin, those smarty-pants glasses, or some combination of all three, but we just can't get enough of Patrick Dempsey at the photo-call for "Silhouette" yesterday in Milan.

3: Even when just out and about in London, Rihanna still manages to look fierce. The singer was spotted without makeup yesterday.

4: Harvey Fierstein gave a smooch to Cyndi Lauper at the opening of Broadway's "Kinky Boots" on Sunday in New York City.

5: You can thank this woman for introducing us to "Twilight": Stephenie Meyer attended a photo-call for her next project, "The Host," yesterday in Madrid.

6: Crooning cutie Miguel performed in Johannesburg, South Africa, on Saturday.

Life, as it really is

▶ The old saying 'comedy is tragedy plus time' rings true in Sam Lipsyte's short story collection 'The Fun Parts'

To the chagrin of your peers, have you ever cracked up at the most malapropos moments: grim, vulgar or absurd? Like the loathsome, self-loathing and yet somehow lovable characters in his short story collection "The Fun Parts," Sam Lipsyte gives his readers, too, the license to shamelessly laugh through tears and cry through laughter. We ask the author about his 13 not-so-fun, but oh-so-funny tales of redemption.

What is it about your contemptible protagonists — addicts, poseurs, cast-offs and outcasts — that makes them so engaging, even likable?

When you get the right kind of language going with these characters, especially when they're narrating, they're able to get across a sense of life as it really feels. Even if it's not a pretty picture, it's filled with a raw humor and openness. We recognize aspects of ourselves in them. I strive for intimacy. I don't want to mock [my characters]; they mock themselves. And whenever they interact with the world, they tend to lose, but that doesn't make them losers. Many of your protagonists blame their problems, without resentment, on flawed parenting. What do you think we inherit from our parents?

I have kids myself, so I'm thinking about these things. The scariest thing is that my own parents have no idea which moments that made a difference because they were usually so banal. You would never remember doing them in your own lifetime but your child is studying you and freezes them forever. I hope that with my children I'm saying the right thing when they're taking the picture. It seems that we meet each character at the beginning of the end of a major crisis. I'm always interested in characters that have their backs into the corner as we begin; it adds more tension. We end up getting the backstory anyway to some degree, right? You have to design a machine that will feed information in a way that seems part of the thrill. An old teacher of mine once said, "There's no getting to the good parts."

Or "the fun parts."
[Laughs] Right.

How do you find humor in life's unsung tragedies?

I view everything in a tragicomic light. Most things [in life] are dead serious and quite funny at the same time. Something can be really funny and then suddenly, as you're laughing so hard, you begin to see how painful everything is or it shows you some flash of the abyss. We are always seeing things from different angles. I think having just one [way of seeing] is a problem.

Paris Fashion Week review

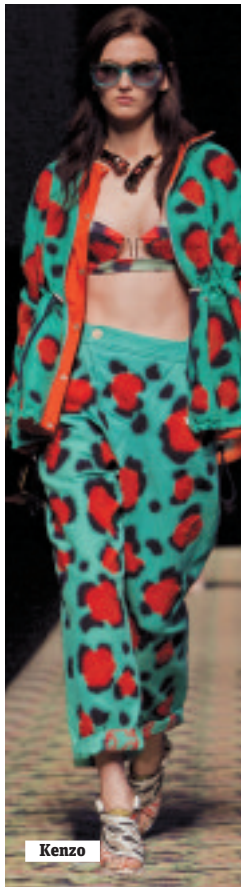

SUNDAY

10 a.m.

Team Kenzo has left quilted throws and little hand-warmers for each of us on our seats. The venue isn't heated, so this is a good thing. It's also a testament to how cool Humberto Leon and Carol Lim are that everyone in the audience is wearing their freebies. Celebrities, editors, stylists and buyers rarely indulge in the swag gifted at shows because they receive enough in their regular working life, plus no one wants to drag a gift bag from show to show.

10:20 a.m.

The press notes explain that Leon and Lim went to ancient temples in India, Nepal and China to find inspiration for their new collection. That trip yielded a new batch of graphic separates worth coveting. For the past two or three seasons, we've been experiencing a moment in which the statement print is a thing. The graphic is coveted as much as the item of clothing or accessory itself. Designers such as Miuccia Prada started this phenomenon years ago (remember when you just had to have that lipstick print?), but Kenzo is taking it up a notch. The new collection is teeming with pieces that are destined for ubiquity next season and I can guess which ones will be the next street-style stars: A shearling leather bomber and matching skirt covered in all-seeing eyes, a boxy coat done in shimmery lurex and a blazer covered in swirly embroidery are high on the list.

● KENYA HUNT

PFW trends

The statement sleeve

Sleeves are getting more elaborate as the Paris shows go on. At Maison Martin Margiela, oversized shirt sleeves came with giant brush strokes on even bigger cuffs. Phoebe Philo, meanwhile, twisted the sleeves of a coat dress to make a big bow at Celine, and Rei Kawakubo wound hers into giant serpentine coils at Comme des Garçons. ● KH

Neon nurseries

Gone are the days of the traditional pink and blue color scheme for baby rooms. "In 2012, there was a lot of neon in fashion," Mauer says. "You saw it on the runway, and now people are bringing it into their nurseries." Big and bold is the new motto. But don't expect to paint the walls electric blue or buy a bright yellow crib, notes Mauer. You are more likely to see neon pink bedding, or a neon green table cover that adds mild pops of color and a bit of trendiness to the nursery — without going overboard.

Trends for you and your baby

► Whether it's taking a mommy-moon or hosting an ultrasound party, the big arrival is a big deal ► What you'll be seeing this year

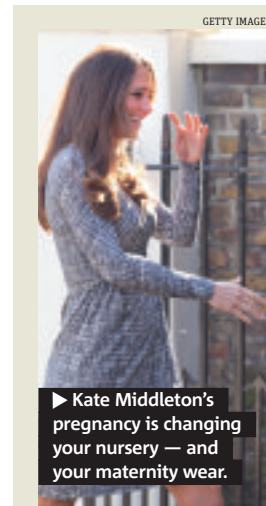

Fear not, moms-to-be: Being pregnant doesn't mean you have to give up on the trends. We caught up with Elena Mauer, deputy editor of Thebump.com, to learn what first-time moms should look out for in the coming year.

Going green ... with baby names

Pantone named emerald as the color of the year for 2013, so expect to see baby names like Hunter, Jade, Kelly and Forest increasing in popularity in the coming months. Even celebrities have been swept up in the trend (Drew Barrymore named her new baby girl Olive).

Ultrasound parties

Parents-to-be are going beyond the usual baby shower or gender reveal party, which is when "you would cut a cake and the icing in the middle was either pink or blue, and that told you the baby's gender," Mauer says. Now more extravagant measures are popping up, including ultrasound parties, where a medically ► Kate Middleton's pregnancy is changing your nursery — and your maternity wear.

Royal baby gear

The whole world has been anticipating the arrival of Kate Middleton and Prince William's baby. Designers have already begun incorporating Middleton's style into some of their maternity wear collections, so pregnant women can emulate royal fashion. "We think the royal baby is going to be a trendsetter and he or she isn't even alive yet," says Mauer. It's only a matter of time before we see the royal baby's style replicated in department stores.

trained technician is invited to perform the procedure in the living room for all of your loved ones to see. Simpler (yet still dramatic) measures include sending boxes stuffed with pink or blue balloons to family members.

Mommy-moons

Soon-to-be moms are taking what Mauer calls "mommy-moons," mini getaways that pregnant women can take with their girlfriends. Beach vacations, spa trips and pampering parties are the most popular choices. "Pregnant women are looking for ways to pamper themselves [and] spend time with their friends before the baby arrives and they become very busy," says Mauer.

Take the Foot Health Checkup

- My toenails are streaked, discolored, thickened.
- The side of my toenails dig into the skin and hurt.
- I have a large bump behind my big toe (or little toe) which is always red.
- I get an extremely painful "cramp" in the area of my third and fourth toes when wearing shoes.
- My toes aren't straight - they are crooked, bent and hurt.
- I have painful calluses on the ball of my foot which keep building up.
- I have corns on my toes which get thicker no matter what shoe size I wear.
- The bottom of my heel hurts all day, but it's worse when I step out of bed in the morning.
- I have cramps in my legs which always happen when I walk the same distance.
- My ankles are swollen most of the time.
- My feet are always dry and scaly - sometimes they itch.
- My feet just hurt all over when I stand or walk a lot.
- I have numbness, burning, infection, persistent pain, skin rash, or open sores.

If any of these apply to you, call today.

Horoscope

♋ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Nothing worth bragging about is likely to be accomplished if you are too wishy-washy. In fact, your inability to make up your mind could drive everyone crazy.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Don't get so carried away by how well others are doing that you forget to concentrate on furthering your own abilities. Focus on your own efforts.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Just because a certain tactic works well for a friend doesn't necessarily mean that it will for you. Experiment to find your own game plan and then stick to it.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Steer clear of any involvement in which you have no say in the decision-making. Plans made entirely by others might not be best for your interests.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. It won't take you long to lose points with others if you don't hold yourself accountable for your mistakes. This will be especially true if you put the blame everywhere but on yourself.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Wasted time will become a critical factor in hampering your productivity. The chances for accomplishing your aims will be in direct proportion to the time you spend dilly-dallying.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. If you and your mate are facing a difficult decision, try to work it out yourselves instead of discussing it with outsiders, especially in-laws.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. In order to spare the feelings of another, you might rework the facts. When the truth comes out, it will anger the person whom you wanted to help.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22.
When it comes to people who helped you acquire something that you badly wanted, of course you should share the rewards. Just don't feel obligated to make a payoff to those who did nothing.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21.
There is a chance that one of your well-intentioned gestures might produce some unintended and unpleasant effects, causing others to have difficulty in discerning your motives.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19.
Under most conditions, you are a rather determined person. However, friends could talk you into doing things you know you shouldn't, causing you much guilt later.

♊ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. A lot of disappointment is possible if you base your expectations on unrealistic premises. Make it a point to try to see things for what they are and not as you wish them to be.

Disagreement is one thing; what the GOP is doing is just silly

RE: "GAME: (N.) THAT WHICH IS PLAYED BY BOTH SIDES" (METRO, MARCH 1-3)
Letter writer Kevin Metz is right: We live in a system of checks and balances. Unfortunately, that has nothing to do with what's going on now. Anyone truly tired of hearing about Republican obstructionism should perhaps take it up with the party. Sen. Mitch McConnell said from day one that their first priority was to make the president fail. Just the other day, Sen. Lindsey Graham admitted on television, likely inadvertently, that the GOP's sole strategy is to oppose anything and everything the president proposes.

Republicans aren't required to rubber-stamp the president's proposals, but, instead of simply rejecting his ideas reflexively, how about giving them some amount of consideration? Just like the majority of the public indicated they wanted them to do with their votes. This is not "checks and balances"; this is a ridiculously long temper tantrum, and it's destroying both the party and its brand. MARC BESCHLER, VIA E-MAIL

Meeting halfway isn't reserved for commuters

It is telling that President Barack Obama chooses to sit down with key leaders after the sequester to discuss what spending cuts and/or service cuts will be decided. Why was he not deeply involved in the process before Americans have to again be hit hard financially? Oh, yes, he said both sides should be willing to compromise, yet he himself would not compromise or even entertain suggestions from the other side. He bashed the Republicans for stalling this sequester, but again, where were Mr. Obama's suggestions, interventions and his promise to compromise? As expected, promise not kept. CATHY WEISENBURGER, VIA E-MAIL

There's a very simple solution to the ridiculous budget problems confronting this administration: The Democratically controlled Senate needs to pass a budget. But for the past five years, Obama has instructed Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid and his cohorts not to even consider a budget, even though by law a budget must be prepared by the end of February of each year. You see, without a budget, this government can spend without any control. And the spending is the problem. JOHN E. BEVAN,

Farm-fresh devotees find big flavors in Providence

- Take a weekend trip to experience Rhode Island's small city with big taste
 ► A rundown of the area's hottest culinary spots ► Hand-rolled ravioli, anyone?

► Pork belly and brussels sprout hash is on the menu at XO Cafe.

As home to culinary school Johnson & Wales, Rhode Island's capital city tends to snag its share of new graduates. For dining patrons, that means there is a steady supply of talent in the city's restaurant kitchens. Add to that a rich cultural heritage from generations of Portuguese and Italian immigrants — and proximity to the rich agriculture of New England and the ocean — and the small city of Providence has become a big destination for foodies, especially those who appreciate the farm-to-table approach.

► Gracie's (194 Washington

St., 401-272-7811) in downtown Providence is another stop for farm-fresh junkies: The best way to eat here is to leave it to the chef. After a few questions from the server — among the friendliest and most helpful in the city — the chef will send out a surprise five-course tasting menu ($75), perhaps with things like a slow-poached farm egg or sea scallops served with a maple-glazed pork belly, all flavored with herbs grown in the restaurant's rooftop garden.

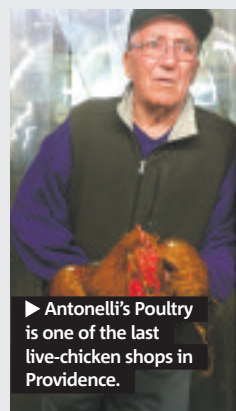

► Sunday brunch is a sleepy affair in Providence, but well worth rising for to down two things: A Dirty Red Snapper (a house special bloody mary mix with gin and olive juice) and the pork belly and brussels sprout hash and at XO Cafe (125 N. Main St., 401-273-9090). The restaurant defies the farm-to-table stereotype and instead rocks more of a let's-do-one-more-shot-of-whiskey atmosphere. Fittingly, the menu has all kinds of hangover busters, like the XO Benedict, a local short rib served with chive potato pancake and chipotle hollandaise. ● METRO

For the serious foodie — as in you like to pick out the chicken you kill for dinner — a visit to Antonelli Poultry Company in the city historic Italian Federal Hill district is another must-do. The best way to navigate the area is to sign up for the Savoring Federal Hill culinary tour with chef Cindy Salvato (401-934-2149, $50). authentic just-like-your-nonni-made-it goodies. One word of advice: Reserve early. The tour has a months-long wait.

► Homemade torrone — a kind of Italian nougat — is a specialty at Scialo Brothers Bakery, another stop on the Savoring Federal Hill culinary tour.

Get to the airport extra early for TSA

Secretary of Homeland Security Janet Napolitano cautioned airline passengers to get to the airport extra early because U.S. spending cuts have already led to long lines at security checkpoints, and said the furloughs will only make the situation worse.

Spending cuts have led to the elimination of overtime for TSA officers and customs agents. She said TSA would begin sending out furlough notices to employees; Customs and Border Protection will send them out this week.

Napolitano said delays were between 150 percent and 200 percent at certain airports. REUTERS

Favorite foodie hangout

One of Providence's most essential reservations is New Rivers (7 Steeple St., 401-751-0350), located near Brown University in an 18th-century warehouse. Mendocino, Calif.

Why go now: During the spring and summer, tourists flock to California's North Coast, but during the winter, the art-centric town beckons with a haunting romanticism. Bundle up for a beach stroll, with waves crashing dramatically against the rugged shoreline, and afterward, warm up by the fire at any of Mendo's cozy B&Bs. What to do: Build your shared art collection (or start one outright) at any of Mendocino's galleries; the Mendocino Art Center and the Artists' Co-op of Mendocino, which offers free refreshments at gallery openings every second Saturday, are good bets.

Park City, Utah

Why go now: Park City is an enchanting winter wonderland for powder-loving couples — what better way to warm up after schussing down the slopes than with your snow bunny and a hot toddy? Even the ski-averse will stay busy, from shopping along the bustling Main Street, to decadent spa treatments, to a thriving film scene — even when the world-famous Sundance Film Festival isn't in town.

► Skiers: Try Park City.

What to do: By day, work up some friendly competition while carving up some of the finest powder in the country. For apres, Main Street always delivers — a mandatory stop is the No Name Saloon, a friendly, no-frills joint that boasts the motto "Helping People Forget Their Names Since 1903." And for film buffs, the Park City Film Series, held at the Park City Library, showcases an excellent lineup of indie flicks.

Yankees GM breaks ankle

MLB. Brian Cashman is the latest Yankee to catch the injury bug this spring training.

The general manager broke his right fibula and dislocated his ankle while participating in a tandem skydive with the Army Golden Knights.

The injury actually occurred on the second jump Cashman attempted. He was taking part in the jumps in order to raise money for the Wounded Warrior Project. ● METRO

MIXED MESSAGE

► Carlesimo plans to shake up rotation ► Blatche, Lopez to see time on floor together ► Evans will likely sit as offensive liability

NED DISHMAN/NBAE/GETTY IMAGES

► Andray Blatche will likely see more time at power forward instead of backing up Brook Lopez.

ON TV TOMORROW

Nets at Bobcats
7 p.m., YES

Nets interim head coach P.J. Carlesimo didn't exactly release his new rotation on a silver platter yesterday, but he did hint at pairing centers Andray Blatche and Brook Lopez together.

"It's something that I'd like to look at more, but there's more teaching," Carlesimo said after practice yesterday. "It'll probably fall on Dray at the four spot. The four spot is not that different. It's not different than the five spot in a lot of the things we do. ... It's kind of hard to expect him to know everything. We have to look at what menu of things we would call in that situation and try to anticipate as many of the defensive things as we could."

Blatche is having a bounce-back season after signing a one-year deal with the Nets in September. He averaged a career-high 16.8 points two years ago but slipped to 8.5 points per game in 26 games for the Wizards while he was benched due to a lack of conditioning.

It is also a pairing point guard Deron Williams would not mind seeing, especially since it gives him two options for running pick-and-roll plays.

"It'll be good because it hasn't really happened much this year," Williams said. "I think last game I can't really recall, but I don't remember it happening much before last game. I think it's a good strategy — a look we haven't tried. The way the things have been going lately it doesn't hurt to try it."

Assuming Blatche and Lopez are paired together, the Nets should get more offensive production at power forward. Reggie Evans can rebound and defend, but he's scored just eight points while shooting 2-for-19 in his last eight games.

Metro's NBA power rankings | by Jimmy Toscano

HEAT (43-14)

A 14-game win streak. Is that good? Nope. It's freakin' awesome — and so are the Heat right now. This team hasn't lost in over a month, and LeBron James is playing at otherworldly levels.

THUNDER (43-16)

A tough loss in Denver was followed by a big win against the Clippers to lock OKC in at the No. 2 spot this week. Miami No. 1, OKC No. 2. It's 2012 all over again.

CLIPPERS (43-19)

Los Angeles is still one of the deepest teams in the league, which will be huge for them in this year's Western Conference playoffs.

SPURS (47-14)

Tony Parker will be down for about a month. He's been the reason the Spurs have overcome injuries. Can they return the favor in March?

GRIZZLIES (39-19)

The second hottest team in the league behind the Heat has gone 9-1 in their last 10 games, losing to just — you guessed it — the Heat.

PACERS (38-22)

The last game the Heat lost was against Indiana and the two will play again, this time in Miami, on Sunday. We'll learn a lot about the Pacers here.

NUGGETS (38-22)

Say what you want about the Nuggets' lack of star power, but Ty Lawson is averaging 23.1 points and 7.6 assists over his last 10 games.

KNICKS (35-21)

The Knicks posted 37 points in the second quarter against the Heat, but just 34 points combined in the third and fourth.

HAWKS (33-25)

At the start of this week, the Hawks were holding down the No. 4 slot in the East. But they were also just two games from falling down to No. 7.

BULLS (34-26)

Joakim Noah looks like a man amongst boys out there as of late, but the Bulls are playing below-.500 basketball since late January.

NETS (34-26)

Hopefully Jay-Z is too busy planning his summer stadium tour with Justin Timberlake to notice that his team has lost four of its last five games.

ROCKETS (33-28)

What does a No. 1-ranked offense and a No. 29-ranked defense get you? Fun basketball games. Unfortunately "fun" doesn't often equal "success."

CELTICS (31-27)

Four games in six days for the Celtics, including a back-to-back on the road. They could easily go 4-0 or 0-4 in this stretch.

WARRIORS (33-27)

The Warriors have two big problems. First, they don't play much defense. Second, they can't win on the road. That usually spells an early playoff exit.

JAZZ (32-27)

The good news: The Jazz are 22-8 at home this season. The bad news: Five of their next six are on the road, where they've gone 10-19.

NOTICE: For the safety of every Guest, all persons specifically consent to and are subject to metal detector and physical pat-down inspections prior to entry. Any person or property that could affect the safety of Yankee Stadium, its occupants or its property shall be denied entry. Guests may bring into the Stadium one soft-sided bag no larger than 16 inches by 16 inches by 8 inches. WARNING: During all batting practices, fielding practices, warm-ups and the course of all baseball games and the baseball game experiences, hard hit baseballs and bats and fragments thereof may be thrown or hit into the stands, concourses and concessions areas. For the safety of every Guest, all Guests must stay alert and be aware of their surroundings at all times while visiting Yankee Stadium. Accordingly, Guests who are concerned with their original ticketed location by reason of the foregoing, at any time before, during or after the baseball game and the baseball game experiences, should contact any Guest Relations representative to request that they be relocated; however, please remember that: (a) any requested relocation is subject to availability, and (b) any alternate seat or standing location may be in a section and/or level of the Stadium and/or within a price category that is not in the same section and/or level and/or price category of the Guests' original ticketed location, regardless of their original ticketed location. TIME, OPPONENT, DATE AND CLUB ROSTERS AND LINEUPS, INCLUDING THE NEW YORK YANKEES ROSTER AND LINEUP, ARE SUBJECT TO CHANGE. DISTRIBUTION OF PROMOTIONAL ITEMS IS FOR GUESTS IN ATTENDANCE ONLY, WHILE SUPPLIES LAST. PROMOTION DATES, ITEMS AND DISTRIBUTION ARE SUBJECT TO CHANGE AND/OR CANCELLATION. Additional terms and conditions apply.

YOU MAY BE ELIGIBLE FOR THE
Nicotine Patch & Gum Giveaway
NOW THROUGH MARCH 21

EVERY TIME YOU SMOKE...

CIGARETTES ARE EATING YOU ALIVE.

Smoking eats away
at vital organs and tissues of the body.

THE MOUTH

Toxins from cigarette smoke slowly destroy delicate tissues of your mouth and throat, putting you at great risk for cancer of the lips, tongue and larynx.
